“I have known Donald and Mary for many years now. They not only have been regular customers at Brooklyn Pickle West, but dear friends and neighbors to me. They are both the grand parents I never had. Donald's jokes and positive attitude always kept a smile on my face. He never failed to say hello and ask me about my life and day. Like two best friends always together, Mary and Don were inseperable. He was such a loving husband and man.”
