“ Peter and Susan; Aunt Elizabeth was wonderful, kind and compassionate. As a child I looked forward to visiting your home. Your mother always made me feel capable and valued, particularly when I was not. She had a gentle way of demonstrating that education was vital. Completing my 37th year of university life I celebrate the influence of your mother. Brothers Amos, John, and August; it still fascinates me that your mother was raised in a household with those three. Elizabeth was the historian of Camillus, with each reading her writing becomes richer. It was wonderful to visit with Elizabeth this past summer, to share in her spirit one last time.

“ A thought that was given to me: Being a nurse means-You will never be bored, always be frustrated, surrounded by challenges, make a difference in peoples lives, be blessed and cursed, see life begin and end, have triumphs and failures, cry alot, laugh alot, be amazed at peoples capacity for love,courage and endurance. Thank-you Aunt Liz for being a positive influence in my nursing choice.

“ It was great to have Elizabeth able to attend the reunion dinner at the firehouse last August. She contributed so much to the auxiliary through the years and was a ready source of history when needed. She will be missed.
